

More stimulating than sudoku. And easier to pronounce.

Wallflowers beware: The first thing you'll notice at the Chicago Museum of Science & Industry is that your kind is simply nowhere to be found. For good reason. This museum can't help but bring you out of your shell. And with close to 13 acres of dynamic, hands-on exhibits and over 35,000 truly amazing artifacts to peak your interest, if you don't experience a heightened sense of excitement from the moment you arrive till the moment you leave-check your pulse.
